Know your name and know your number... hold it on up for love.
 Study your roots, your family tree... water it well for love.
 Strap on, zip on your uniform... button it up for love.
 Lose your life, but know your name... and write it down for love.

In this age of information computer words are for computer ears.
 Weave together your ethical shreds.
 Gather together your responsible friends.

In your heart there's a history... hold it on up for love.
 In your soul there's a mystery... hold it on up for love.
 In your bed you clutch and gasp... sweat it all out for love.
 In your church you take the vows... and give it all up for love.

In this age of information computer words are for computer ears.
 Information networks are accelerating every year.
 Fibre optic rockets sending information worldwide,
 send to me a glowing postcard - let me know you're still alive.

(Piano chorus:

 Gmin7)

This... this is your freedom and this... this is your fence.
 This... this is your doorway and this... this door is locked.

In this age of information, put your hand in mine.
 I prefer human contact to virtual reality every time.
 Fibre optic rockets sending information worldwide,
 send to me a glowing parcel - let me know you're still alive.

(8 bar break)

Eerie earthmen here.

Hold your hammer you computer smasher... smash it on up for love.
 Hold your axe you computer hacker... hack it on up for love.
 We're looking for the CPU. We want to disconnect you!
 We want to see light - informative light. We want to shake hands with human hands.
 Use your hammer you computer smasher... smash it on up for love.
 Use your axe you computer hacker... and hack it on up for love...

(2 bar empty) Heavy to here....

No kick.

Hack it to bits!

Add kick.
